POWERS MAY ACT IN ASIA

DISCUSSING JOINT LOAN TO CHINA

ANGLO-AMERICAN TALKS IN WASHINGTON

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

Washington, March 1.

It was authoritatively learned here to-day that official circles are considering the possibility of several Governments contributing financial assistance to China, which might serve as a substitute for the aid which Japan has reportedly offered to China.

This was learned following a lengthy conference to-day between the British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay, and the United States Under Secretary of State, Mr. William Phillips.

Some observers have expressed the belief that any possible collaboration would include Japan as well as other Governments.

Also it is authoritatively understood that the United States policy favours collective dealing with China, in accordance with the Nine Power Treaty and International Bankers Consortium of 1920.

This policy, it is considered, would be preferable to single-handed aid from one Power, which might result in exclusive privilege for that Power contrary to the spirit of the Open Door policy.

From circumstances following the Lindsay-Phillips conference it was indicated that Great Britain had taken the initiative in the discussions, which was obviously due to Great Britain's large financial stake in China.

Some authorities have expressed the belief that the United States would be especially sympathetic to any proposals to aid China, because such action would serve to offset the alleged damage done to China by the United States silver policy.

MONROE DOCTRINE

Observers of the Sino-Japanese situation have suggested that Japan was taking advantage of China's weakness in order to further its own aims in building up an equivalent of the Monroe Doctrine in the Far East, which would include special rights and privileges for Japan in China.

From other quarters, however, comes the opinion that China may be using Japan as a means of inducing aid from the Western world for the modification of the United States silver policy.

Yesterday's conference between Sir Ronald Lindsay and the U.S. Under-Secretary of State, Mr. William Phillips, is taken as the first indication that the United States and Great Britain might be coming together.

This, of course, would be subject to the other Nine Power signatories who would presumably have to be consulted in the event of a joint action.

Officials here, however, declined to disclose whether such action had occurred or even been planned.

NO SPECIFICATION

Washington, March 1.
Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador to Washington, and Mr. Phillips, the Under-Secretary of State, conferred for nearly an hour to-day. Questioned immediately following their conversations, Mr. Phillips declined to disclose the purpose of their talks.

They had met, said Mr. Phillips, to exchange views of the British and American Governments on several questions of mutual interest. The Under-Secretary would not specify the topics.

Mr. Phillips admitted that the United States was watching very closely the developments of the proposed Sino-Japanese alliance.

Among the possibilities foreseen by observers here is a plan for joint action by several nations in making a loan to China to relieve the financial strain upon her, and thus rendering unnecessary any economic alliance with Japan.

HU HAN-MIN

CANTON ON SUNDAY

Canton, March 2.
The programme of Major-General Doihara's visit to South China has been fixed and communicated to the Canton authorities by the local Japanese Consulate.

He is expected to arrive in Hongkong this morning and will pay a visit to Mr. Hu Han-min at the latter's residence during the afternoon.

His visit to Canton is scheduled for Sunday morning, and will stay here for two days before making an air trip to Nanning, capital of Kwangsi, where he will call on the Kwangsi leaders, including General Li Chung-jen.

He will return to Hongkong on March 10, and travel to Foochow before sailing for Japan.

BRITISH DRIVERS' EXAMINATIONS

400,000 WILL FACE
TESTS ANNUALLY

London, Mar. 1.

In the House of Commons, the Transport Minister, Mr. Horace Bellish, outlined the steps which he had taken to set up a system of tests for new applicants for motor vehicle driving licences.

The new organisation would have this work as its special duty, and would be based on twelve existing traffic areas, with a supervising examiner in charge of each area and a chief examiner at headquarters. Under these supervising examiners there was to be 250 examiners.

All the supervisors were now selected and more than half the examiners. A maximum fee of 10s. for those undergoing the test was originally contemplated, but it had been found that at a 7/6d. service would be self-supporting. It was estimated that there would be 400,000 new drivers examined every year.

In the case of large organisations, such as the Army, Navy, Air Force, Post Office, police and employers of not fewer than 250 drivers, their own examiners would be authorised to issue certificates.

CHECK TO BRITISH RECOVERY

ECONOMIST'S

DISCOURAGING
TRADE

London, March 1.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway, the Chairman, Sir Josiah Stamp, reviewing the general outlook, said it was clear at the turn of the year that there had been a distinct check in the process of recovery.

On the other hand, exports in December and January showed a marked advance, and there was great activity in constructional industries. But the international trading and monetary situation continued to be most discouraging, and left us dependent still upon a domestic revival.

As a result of all these factors, it seemed that we might well hope to hold the present position, and, indeed, make some fair advance upon it, but it was unlikely that there could be any spectacular leap forward in the near future.

WOMEN'S QUEST OF EQUALITY

WINNING FIGHT
FOR SUFFRAGE

LONG STRUGGLE
IN FRANCE

Paris, March 1.

The long struggle for women's suffrage in France was marked by an unexpected triumph for those who seek fuller emancipation when the Chamber of Deputies to-day adopted a Socialist Bill giving women a vote both in municipal and Parliamentary elections.

The count in the Chamber was 453 to 124.

The measure will very probably be killed in the Upper house, however, for the Senate has invariably turned down such proposals in the past. The forces of feminism are tremendously encouraged by the reception given the Bill in the Chamber, nevertheless.

The United Press, reporting the passage of the suffrage measure through the Chamber, says there is not the slightest possibility of the Senate approving the Bill.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK'S
PROGRAMME

Hankow, Mar. 1.

Addressing the inaugural meeting of the Wuchang Anti-Red Headquarters this morning, Marshal Chiang Kai-shek said the scope and nature of activities of the Headquarters at Wuchang would be similar to those at Nanchang, namely, the suppression of the Red elements by military measures and the pushing of the New Life Movement among the people.

He stressed the importance of eliminating the opium evil as part of the New Life Movement.

He said that the first year of the six-year anti-opium programme had elapsed and that the results of the campaign were most satisfactory. Poppy planting in Honan, Kiangsi, Chekiang, and Anhui Provinces had been entirely suppressed.

Lusaka, March 1.

The wife of Sir Hubert Winthrop, young Governor of Northern Rhodesia, is missing. The plane in which she was travelling to meet her husband is long overdue and its occupants, Lady Winthrop and Dr. Kirby, Government Medical Officer, are believed forced down in a lion-haunted jungle country.

The plane left Livingstone Thursday morning, bound for the new capital of Lusaka, where Lady Winthrop intended to rejoin her husband.

Since the plane was sighted over Loamo nothing further has been seen of it. Grave fears are felt for Lady Winthrop's safety.

FINANCE CRISIS AHEAD?

U.S. KEEPS EYES
ON STERLING

GOLD BLOC
UNEASINESS

New York, Mar. 1.

The Wall Street Journal, reporting on market conditions, states that stocks advanced, led by gold and silver issues, due to the heavy demand, owing to a record high price of gold in London, plus rumours that the United States might raise the gold price which, however, informed persons believed to be groundless.

Traders on Wall Street are most interested in the price of gold in London, which is quoted at 145/1, due to the continued slump in the pound which touched a record low in terms of the French franc, attributed to nervous foreigners selling the pound owing to unsettling political rumours, which are unjustified according to London financial leaders who have pointed out the firm tone of the London markets in spite of the uneasiness abroad.

PARIS NERVOUS

The nervousness is particularly evident in Paris, owing to some quarters claiming that Gold Bloc countries are becoming uneasy over their own troubles, which are growing due to decreasing exports and tourist traffic.

Wall Street, likewise, is very interested in what Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer told the House of Commons, namely, that he was unable to promise an early stabilisation of the pound.

Some have considered the low pound highly beneficial to Britain, due to the fact that it gives a trade advantage, but other factors are involved, developments of which Wall Street is awaiting, anticipating some sort of crisis.

—Swan, Culbertson and Frits.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

London, Mar. 1.

The fall in the value of sterling in terms of Continental gold currencies, attributed in part to nervous selling by foreigners, continued to-day, but the position is viewed with equanimity in the City. This is reflected in the stock markets which maintained a cheerful appearance, and to-day apart from fresh stimulus which was given to the demand for gold shares following the advance of 1s. to 145/1d. in the price of gold, the feature of the markets was the good buying of home industrial, while gilt-edged securities are quoted at satisfactory prices.

It is pointed out also that depreciation in the pound has not resulted in any appreciable increase in domestic prices and the cost of living is actually lower than in 1931.

Like other newspapers the Evening Standard approves the attitude of the authorities, who, it says, have preferred to let the present movement work itself out rather than check it by operations of the Exchange Equalisation Account.

The Standard adds that in Britain there is neither nervousness nor cause for nervousness in the situation. Stock markets are in a healthy condition. British trade returns are promising. Industrial production is flourishing. The internal price level is steady and internal value of the pound remains high.

Sir John Simon arrived at Croydon by air early this afternoon, after his short visit to Paris.

DOLLAR NEARING TWO SHILLINGS

SPECULATORS MUCH OVER-SOLD

UNCERTAINTY IN TREND OF MARKET

Following an advance in silver prices in London, and the rising of the Hongkong-Shanghai cross-rate the Hongkong dollar made a decided advance this morning, appreciating three-farthings to 1s. 11½d. The market locally is firm, with the business rate about 1s. 15/16d. and 2s.

There is, however, a measure of nervousness in the market, due to the fact that Shanghai speculators have oversold about $5,000,000 and Hongkong speculators about $1,000,000.

The Hongkong-Shanghai cross-rate advanced a point to 121½. Shanghai exchange rate this morning was 1s. 7½/8d., an advance of a farthing.

Meanwhile, there is considerable uncertainty as to the future trend of the market, although with London silver prices steadily advancing the expectation is that even higher rates will be seen.

Both in Shanghai and Hongkong, speculators are very active. In London, silver prices advanced 3/16ths yesterday, taking the spot rate to 26½/16 and the forward quotation to 26½/16. India, China and America bought whilst China and speculators sold at the rise. The market closed steady.

SHANGHAI MARKET

Shanghai, March 2.
The Foreign Exchange Market is very firm here this morning. This is due to the phenomenal continued rise in London silver and also the general inclination to place a bullish interpretation on the United Press dispatch from Washington regarding the Consortium loan.

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1911. Received, March 2, 9.30 a.m.)

Saarbrücken, Mar. 1.
"We believe relations between Germany and France will definitely improve as a result of the Saar plebiscite decision."

"We believed that our great neighbour nation seeks peace as we do."

"This is not only a day of happiness for Germany, but for all Europe also."

These were the words of Reichsfuehrer Hitler, speaking here to-night at 8 p.m., shortly after the ceremony of handing over control of the Saar from the League of Nations Governing Commission to Germany. Herr Hitler had sworn never to set foot upon Saar soil until it was once more German. To-day he was able to enter the territory, lost to Germany since the War, and still say: "This is my country."

In his address, Herr Hitler emphasised that the Saar was by its nature, as well as by desire, a part of Germany.

Dr. Goebbels, the Reich Minister of Propaganda, and Major Hess, ardent lieutenant of Der Fuehrer, spoke briefly upon the Saar's Germanism.

RUSSIANS TO BUILD RAILWAYS

FEAR PROGRESS
RETARDED

COMMISSAR
APPOINTED

Moscow, March 1.

The appointment of M. Kaganovich, who recently built Moscow's first underground railway, as Commissar of Railways for all the Soviet, is regarded as a most important move by foreign observers.

It means that the Communist Party will now take direct steps for closer supervision of this branch of industry, says Pravda.

M. Kaganovich is called one of the most important executives in the Communist Party and is one of Stalin's closest comrades-in-arms. This paper goes on to say:

"We cannot tolerate any more lagging in this most important branch of national industry. We have no more time to lose."

It is further pointed out that railway building in Russia has not progressed for several years while other branches of industry have been forging ahead. Thus railways, not geared up to the necessary speed to match other development, have actually blocked progress.

The principal reason for this situation has been the lack of organisation and discipline in the railways. Pravda accuses the former managers of paying too much attention to minor details and neglecting the major issues.

NAZIS RIOT IN VIENNA

MANY ARRESTS
NECESSARY

Vienna, March 1.

One hundred and thirty persons were arrested when Austrian Nazis attempted to demonstrate to-day on the occasion of the return of the Saar to Germany.

Police quickly suppressed the demonstrators and in the struggle in the streets were forced to arrest the more obstreperous.

In the riotous scenes which followed the police charged defiant persons among the crowd hood their ground shouting, "Hail Hitler!" in an attempt to rally their comrades and put up a fight.

New Quick-Whitening Action Makes Dull Teeth Clear and Sparkling

Modern science has discovered that millions of germs are collecting on the teeth, forming ugly dingy stains that no ordinary toothpaste can remove. That is why we say "start using KOLYNOS. Your teeth will look brighter after the very first brushing. Soon they will look clearer, cleaner and whiter than you believed possible."

The quick-beautifying action of KOLYNOS is due to two things. First, KOLYNOS contains the finest cleaning and polishing agents known to science. Second, it has the antiseptic power to kill millions of germs that cause ugly teeth and decay.

Now try this new way that so quickly gives dull, discolored teeth brilliance and whiteness.

ANCIENT CHINESE DANCE CUSTOMS UNEARTHED BY MAX FACTOR

If someone asked you how the ancient Chinese painted their faces for their "Wedding of the Sun and the Moon"—dance—what would you reply?

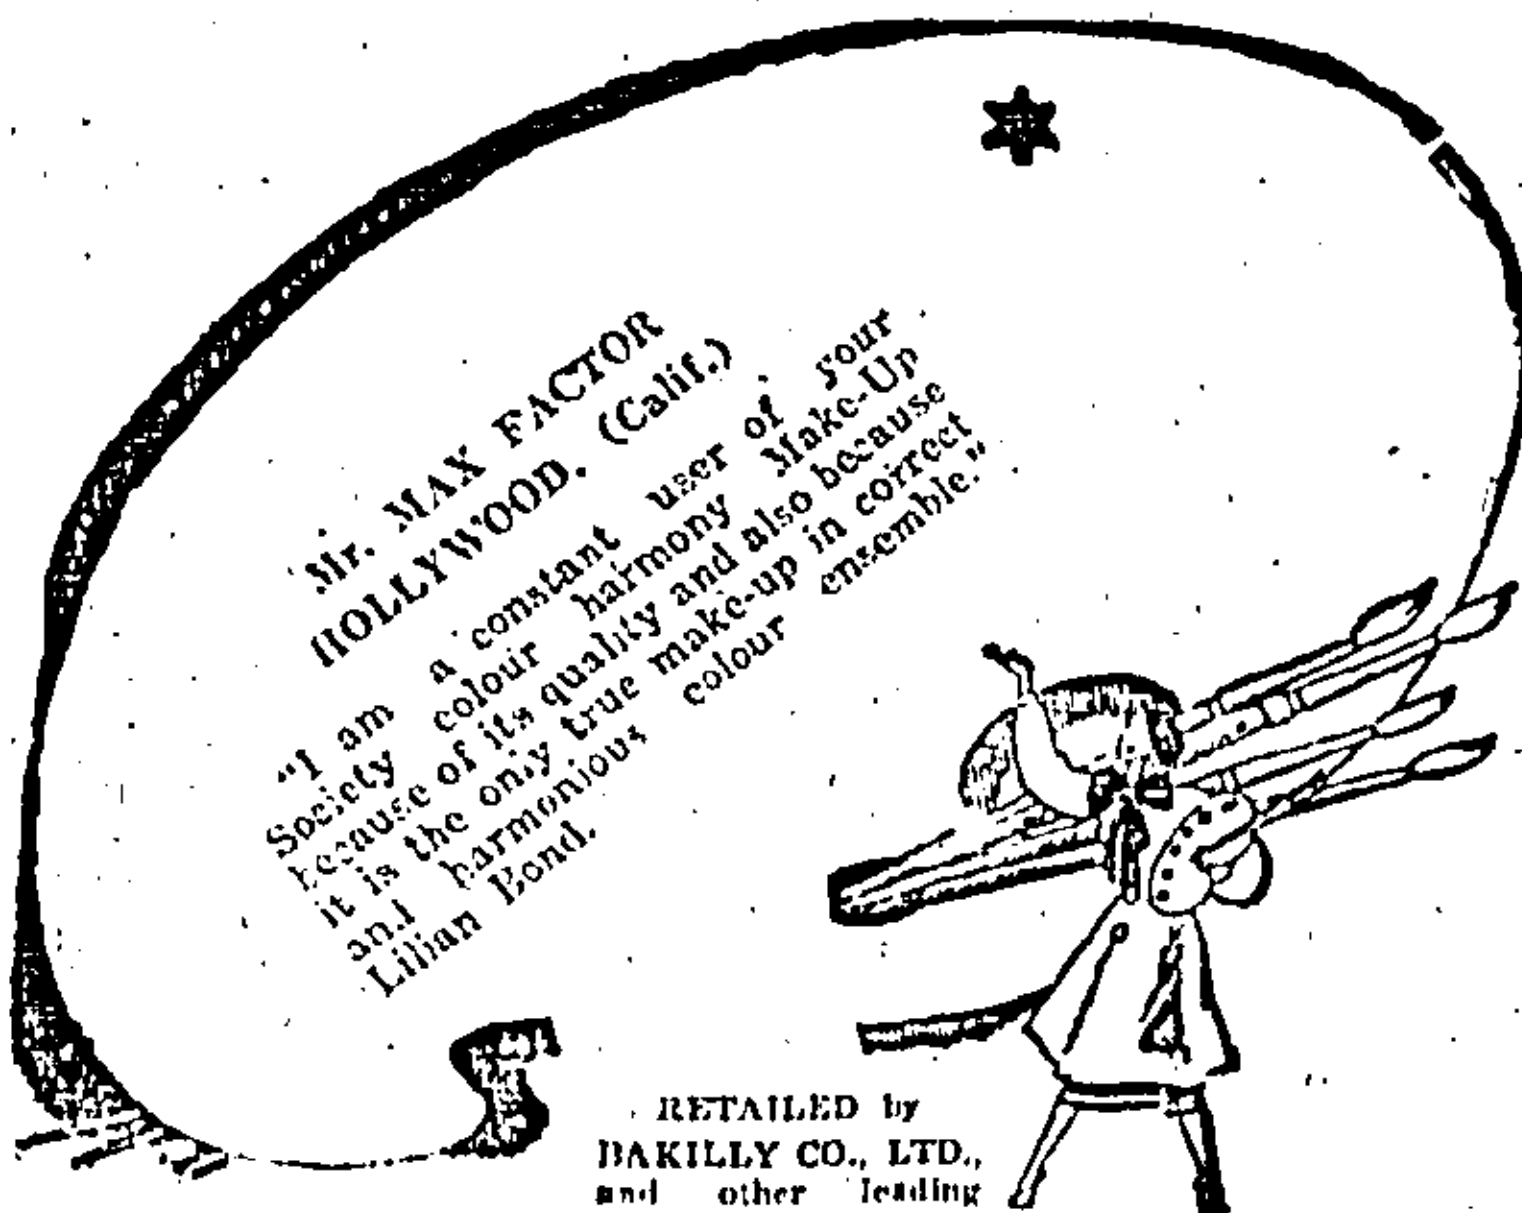

If you had the patience of 999,999 people out of 1,000,000, you'd probably say—"Ask me something simple!"

However, if you were a Hollywood make-up creator, you would have to spend sleepless nights attempting to solve the problem—or else quit the game!

But there is one man in Hollywood who doesn't believe in quitting—and that man is Max Factor, the make-up genius.

When Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer started filming the "Painted Veil" starring Greta Garbo and George Brent, Max Factor spent weeks delving through old books on ancient Chinese tribunal customs to assure the authenticity of "The Wedding of the Sun and the Moon" sequence in this picture.

As far as the make-up was concerned, he had to know exactly what colours to use and the significance of every line that was bizarrely painted on the faces of warriors, lamp-bearers, umbrella bearers, and the various other dancers featured in this scene. To complete the effect a special base foundation and make-up colours had to be devised that would not run and was easily removable.

Oliver Hardy's Climb to Success

A MODEST MAN

Hard knocks and sadness seem to be a feature in the lives of many great comedians. Oliver Hardy, rotund member of the Hal Roach comedy team, Laurel and Hardy, is no exception to this rule. He has had his share of bumps and sadness. But somehow, they seem to have made him a greater laugh-provoker.

His mirth-making ability is shown to great advantage in the Hal Roach-M-G-M production of Victor Herbert's immortal operetta, "Babes In Toyland," in which he is co-starred with Stan Laurel. Originally intended for the study of the law by his father, a once-famous Georgia politician, Hardy was forced to leave his books one year after the beginning of his studies in the University of Georgia law school. His father's sudden death caused this move and Hardy found himself faced by an immediate necessity for a steady income.

The rotund comedian's appearance in Hollywood was also marked by many hardships. He was a long time getting started in films. His first roles were obscure—his salary barely taking care of living expenses. Hard, steady grinding finally developed him into a comedy "heavy." However, it wasn't until he met and teamed up with Stan Laurel at the Hal Roach Studios in 1926, that Hardy found himself on the road to success and financial independence. The two saw the complete opposite in one another and their pictures have been money-makers ever since.

Entertaining his fellow men has evidently been Hardy's forte since youth. At Milledgeville, Georgia, where he attended the Georgia Military College, before going to law school, Hardy ran a one-man theatre. He had to sell and collect tickets, run the projection machine, clean the theatre, and then go on the stage and sing a song to keep the audience interested between reels. It gave him a valuable training in the likes and dislikes of theatre-goers, and undoubtedly has proven of assistance to him in his more successful recent years.

On the screen Hardy is a pompous, self-satisfied, dumb but innocent sort of person, but in real life he is a genial, cordial, modest and eagerly intelligent man. He is full of fun and likes to make people laugh. Incidentally, the rotund funster is one of Hollywood's most proficient golfers, and a fisherman and huntsman of no mean ability.

FASHION NOTES

Gloves with cuffs to match your collar is the very latest fashion note introduced by Jean Harlow, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star, in her new production "Rockless." On a plain little street dress of black wool Jean wears a collar of plique and braid lace. Her white plique gloves are adorned with this same braid lace in the form of large, gauntlet cuffs.

Mary Carlisle, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer featured player, who is an ardent checker fan, has a checker board scarf and a small handbag decorated with checkers. The little actress may now play checkers whenever and wherever she pleases, by simply removing the scarf and opening the handbag.

Betty Furness, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer featured player, announcing currently in "Ship-ahoy of Doubt," is knitting as well as acting her way to fame! Her latest creation is a clever and subtle in which the gloves and scarf neckline are all hand-knit in a warm yarn. The inlets are natural chenille colour and the sleeves and scarf are golden brown. A brown tailored skirt completes this smart ensemble.

Margaret O'Sullivan, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer featured player, is

Its only touch of colour is a brilliant red Ascot scarf doubled over under the chin. A white felt hat and plaid gloves bag and shoes complete this highly effective ensemble.

Jeanette MacDonald, who is starred in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Naughty Marietta," was so pleased over a small organdie cap that she wears in one sequence of the production that she had it copied for evening wear. The modern version of the cap is in lace and velvet and, according to the star, is ideal to keep the coiffure in place while going to and from that formal party.

WALLACE BEERY RECEIVES MEDAL

The highest honour that Italy can bestow on a film actor was given to Wallace Beery, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star, when he was presented with the National Medal for the best screen performance of 1934, by Marquis R. Della Rosa, Italian Consul in Los Angeles. Beery's performance as Pancho Villa in "Viva Villa!" was named as the finest performance of the year by the National Fascist Association of Motion Picture and Theatrical Industries. The award was made at the Second Exposition of Cinematographic Arts held as part of the Nineteenth Biennial Exposition in Venice. This is Italy's great artistic enclave, at which leaders in all the arts are honoured.

YOUTHFUL HEROES HONOURED

SCOUTS WHO DIED FOR HUMANITY

LOST IN STORM OF BATTLE

Shanghai, Feb. 24. China has immortalised with a permanent monument, four young Boy Scouts who gave their lives in an effort to save others during the Sino-Japanese hostilities of 1932.

More than 600 persons, among them many persons high in official circles, recently attended the unveiling of a mausoleum in the Shanghai Public Cemetery in Kiangwan, heart of the hostilities. The will of Dr. Sun Yat-sen was read over the monument—a signal honour wherever Chinese customs are revered.

The Scouts, Lo Yun-hsiang, Ying Wenta, Pao Cheng-wo and Mao Ching-shiang, are not buried in the cemetery. They went to the front to aid in helping refugees from the shell-torn area, to help mothers carry babies, to aid the halt and the lame. They never returned.

Despite continued search, the bodies were never found. They are probably buried under debris of the battlefront, their bodies mangled with the hot steel of heavy shells.

The mausoleum will carry on to posterity this unusual story of heroism.—United Press.

DIVORCE BY REQUEST

WIFE'S BARGAIN WITH HUSBAND

While expressing his reluctance at the decision he had to give, Lord Mansfield, in the Court of Session, Edinburgh, granted a decree of divorce in an action by George Louis McKenzie, marine engineer, of East London Street, Edinburgh, against Edith Myrtle Hayries, or McKenzie, of Austen Avenue, Lilliput, Parapet, near Bournemouth.

His Lordship said that the proceedings had been brought by McKenzie, not only in concert with his wife, but acting under her influence and in fulfilment of a promise that he would divorce her if they should quarrel. The fulfilment of the promise was to be in no way dependent on the existence of legal ground for divorce.

In the present proceedings the wife asked her husband to divorce her, and undertook to arrange for payment to him, at the charge of her paramour, not only of the judicial costs of the action, but of his travelling expenses. The bargain so far as his Lordship was aware, was without exact parallel in the reported cases, and could only have its origin in a complete misunderstanding of the solemnity and of the obligation of marriage.

Had it not been for the authority of cases decided by the Court in 1932 he would have had no difficulty in refusing to grant a decree, giving effect to his settled view that such an arrangement between the parties amounted not only in concert, but to collusion. On consideration of the evidence and on the authority of the cases he had referred to, however, he would accordingly disregard the circumstances attending the bringing of the action, and grant a decree of divorce.

CAN KILL*DANGEROUS WISDOM
TEETH

Professor C. Bowdler Henry delivered his Hunterian lecture at the Royal College of Surgeons on the serious complications which may attend the eruption of the last four molar, or wisdom, teeth. These complications, which are very common, vary from minor discomfort to serious illness and even death.

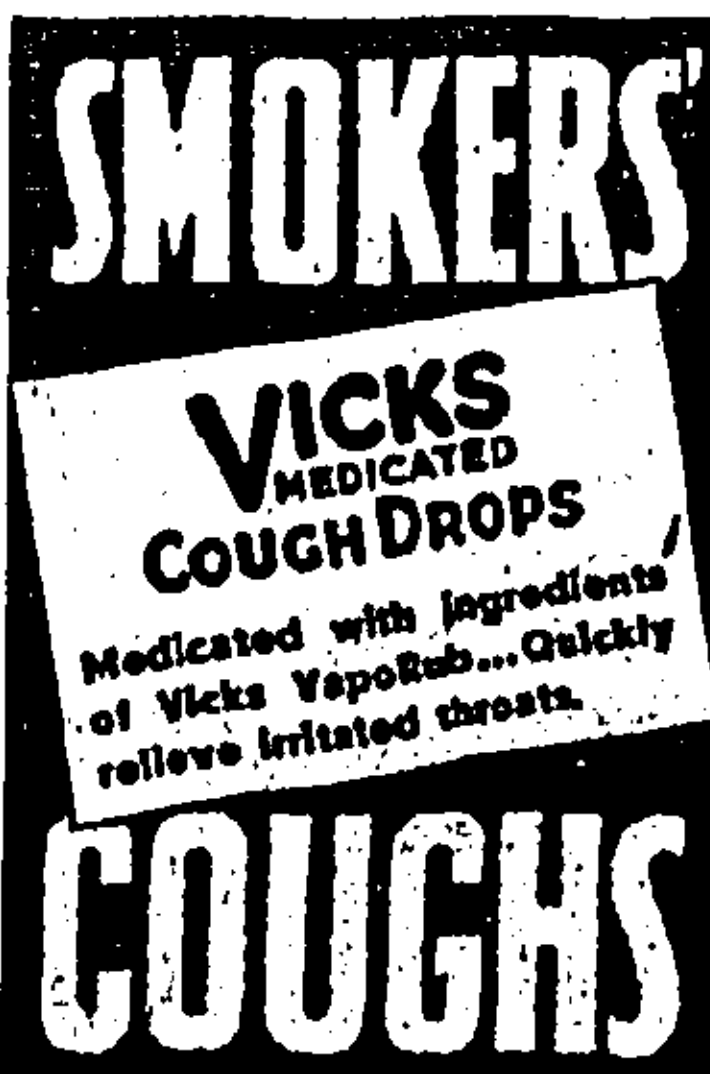

The troubles, he said, were divided into two main groups: those in the first group were caused by the wisdom tooth pressing on local nerves or on the tooth in front of it—causing pain and nervous irritation; the second group included cases in which the neighbourhood of the wisdom tooth became infected by microbes. The infection might spread from the tooth into the bone of the jaw, to the tonsils, throat, and palate, to the glands in the neck, and even to the chest or brain. Sometimes the infection developed by itself, but it often followed attempts at extraction done at the patient's urgent request when he had an uncomfortable inflammation. The inflammation spread to the socket and thence got a thorough hold of the system. The lower wisdoms were far more often the source of trouble than the upper, because of their tendency to come through too close to the angle of the jaw so that the back part did not get quite through the gum. This little hood of gum formed a pocket where germs could multiply. No age was exempt; his cases ranged from 14 to 84. Nor was any race wholly free from this risk, as analysis of 6,000 skulls of all races showed.

BOULDER DAM COMPLETED*HUGE RESERVOIR ON COLORADO RIVER

New York, Feb. 3.

Boulder Dam is completed. At 7 a.m. on Friday the 1,340-ton gate, which on Thursday night was lowered inch by inch into the Colorado River, reached the bottom of the canyon, and the pool of water which is to be a lake 116 miles long began to form. This reservoir, which will take three years to fill, will in time furnish water for the metropolitan centres of Southern California, and for thousands of acres of land now arid. It will provide electric power for the Pacific south-west, and will end for ever the menace of floods in the rich farm lands of Imperial Valley.

The dam is 727 ft. high and has cost, with collateral work, $385,000,000. It has been 4½ years building, but even so has been completed 2½ years ahead of schedule.

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

Popular demand has elected Myrna Loy and William Powell as the ideal married couple of the screen. Box-office returns have proven they are the "best sellers" of man-and-wife teams in pictures, and they now repeat their third co-starring appearance in their third co-starring vehicle in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production of "Evelyn Prentice", tomorrow's attraction at the Queen's Theatre. First, there was the melodramatic success, "Manhattan Melodrama". It portrayed Miss Loy as a dutiful, thoughtful wife and Powell as her politically ambitious husband who rose to great public office. Their success in this picture led to a second one, "The Thin Man", with Miss Loy and Powell again as husband and wife. In it Powell and Miss Loy presented characterizations completely contrasted to their first appearance together. "The Thin Man" brought them back as a pleasure-loving couple. Powell frankly admitting he had married for money, and Miss Loy revealing in the playboy antics of her spouse and aiding him in his hilarious detective adventures. And now, in their third appearance as a team, they appear as husband and wife in "Evelyn Prentice". Powell again is seen as a lawyer, a role in which he excels, and Miss Loy is his erring wife, who becomes involved in a murder scandal. Produced by John Conedine and directed by William K. Howard, the new picture has a supporting cast including Una Merkel, Henry Wadsworth, Isabel Jewell, Harvey Stephens, Edward Brophy, Cora Sue Collins and Jessie Ralph. "The Life of Vergie Winters" All the characters typical of an American small town are found in "The Life of Vergie Winters", RKO Radio's dramatic romance starring Ann Harding, coming to the King's Theatre shortly. The doctor, the minister, the shoemaker and the girl in the hat shop are present. So too are the inquisitive and gossiping old maids, the village belles, the community politician, the pool hall loiterer, the rich banker, and the social leaders, and the girls beyond the pale of polite convention. Against this background of friends, neighbours, enemies and acquaintances, the love story of Vergie Winters, the town milliner, and John Shadwell, son of the wealthiest citizen, unfolds and becomes a town scandal and later a front page sensation. John Boles plays the leading male role and Helen Vinson is seen as the other member of the central love triangle. Alfred Santill directed the screen play from the widely acclaimed action story by Louis Bromfield. "Treasure Island" The generations of people both young and old who have been thrilled by "Treasure Island", Robert Louis Stevenson's famous story of pirate adventure, will find the vivid story-

Colin Clive does the honours, as William Powell and Edna Best get acquainted. They all appear in "The Key," a "Treasure Island" exciting drama of the Sinn Féin revolt, coming to Alhambra Theatre next week.

book experiences of their youth created on the screen at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday with Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper in co-starring roles. Full power of the most widely read fiction book about pirates ever written has been retained in the adaptation. Scenes have been reproduced exactly as described in the book. With Beery as Long John Silver and Jackie Cooper as Jim Hawkins, boy adventure, a cast has been assembled to bring each cover of the Spanish main to the screen with living reality. Lionel Barrymore's blustering Billy Bones is one of the most entertaining characters he has ever played, other noted players are Otto Kruger, is forceful as Dr. Livesey; Lewis Stone, Nigel Bruce and Chic Sale. William V. Mong, Charles McNaughton, Douglas Dumbrille, Edmund Breese, Olin Howland, Charles Irwin, Edward Pawley, Richard Powell, James Burke and little Cora Sue Collins. "Lady By Choice" When "Lady By Choice" was purchased by Columbia studios for production, two names instantly flashed into the minds of the producers. One was Carole Lombard, who will be remembered for her recent fine portrayal of the temperamental stage star of "20th Century"; the other the beloved May Robson. The reason for this spontaneous association of play and players in the minds of producers is obvious from the description of the story. "Lady By Choice" which is having its final screenings to-day at the Queen's Theatre tells the story of a fan dancer who, as a publicity "stunt" adopts a mother. The mother is a derelict police court frequenter, who has been arrested so many times that even the sentencing judge considers her as an old friend. The fan dancer role called for a girl, beautiful,

JAPAN'S BOND POLICY

DANGER OF WAR
SUGGESTED

CONVERSION
POSSIBLE?

Tokyo.
The Minister of Finance, Mr. Korekiyo Takahashi usually tells what he wants to tell about Japan's finances and economic position and his policies. The rest he keeps to himself.

When compelled to undergo cross-examination in the Diet and to answer unwelcome questions, Mr. Takahashi often takes refuge in the reply that the questioner's suggestion is worthy of consideration.

During his replies in the present session of the Diet, Mr. Takahashi probably revealed more than on former occasions but questioners and some financial groups are still not satisfied.

However, his answers are taken as an announcement of policy regarding Japan's bond issues, which are steadily climbing, and the power of the people to absorb them.

The following questions and answers were exchanged between two interpellators, Mr. Ryoeichi Goto and Mr. Shotaro Yano, both of the Minseito party, and Mr. Takahashi:

Q.—If the present aimless policy regarding bond issues is pursued in the future, there may come a time when the nation will lose confidence in Government bonds and the power to absorb them may dwindle. Is it not so?

A.—The nation's confidence in bonds will not be affected simply because the total amount has increased. If bonds are issued beyond the limit of the people's saving power, the bonds will remain unsold in the hands of the Bank of Japan. The vote issue will expand, inflation will increase and the value of the currency will drop.

LIKE GERMANY

It will be like the decline of the confidence in the currency which occurred in Germany and France following the World War. This will weaken the confidence in the bonds. And this will further be followed by a radical drop of securities in general and a decrease in productive power. Such will be the order.

So naturally it is necessary that the bond issue should not exceed the limit of the nation's saving power. But it will not be sufficient to look into the bank deposits or postal savings to survey the saving power of the people. The bank deposits and postal savings represent their balance. It is likely that the people will invest their capital in bonds before depositing it in banks or post offices. At any rate the situation to-day is not critical. To give one example the Bank of Japan is being visited daily by purchasers of bonds. They are not only big banks but bond dealers whose clients want to buy by small amounts such as Yen 50,000 or Yen 100,000 per purchase. If in the future, profitable enterprises are promoted in unofficial circles and capital is drawn by them, absorption of bonds will prove difficult, but in such a case tax receipts will be effected and there will be a natural increase in the revenue of the Government. Such a situation will be welcomed by the Government.

WAR FEARS

Q.—The people are apprehensive lest there be war. Should war break out, the huge war expenditure would have to be raised by bond issue. Is not this fear proving a hidden barrier to bond absorption?

A.—It is a reasonable viewpoint, but it is a tendency prevailing the world over to-day. Armament reduction should not be left to the military leaders alone. Unless the moral sense of the world's people

Science throws new light on tooth decay

Pain is nature's warning that teeth are diseased. The cause of pain is usually decay and an important cause of decay is film on teeth, which science calls "bacterial plaque."

—contrast the attitude of the savage who files his teeth with that of the modern young woman who keeps her teeth white and beautiful.

Modern children may well be expected to have far better teeth than their ancestors.

THE actual cause of the aching tooth is now believed to be due to gases, formed inside the tooth during the process of decay. These gases expand and press on the sensitive nerves of the teeth.

Dental science answers the question of what leads to tooth decay by blaming food particles that have been permitted to remain between the teeth. Germs formed in and by this putrefying food produce acids which attack and dissolve the teeth.

The germs that cause these decay-producing acids live in film, or bacterial plaque, which forms on the teeth. Removal of film has, therefore, become a necessity. One of the most notable discoveries in this field was made recently in the laboratories of The Pepsodent Co., where a new and revolutionary film-removing material was developed. This new discovery is contained in Pepsodent Tooth Paste exclusively. As it is twice as soft as the material most commonly used, Pepsodent is looked upon as the modern standard of safety. At the same time this new material stands unique in its power to cleanse and polish teeth.

Use Pepsodent Tooth Paste twice a day—see your dentist at least twice a year.

DISAPPOINTED EXPLORER

TWELVE HOURS OF SUNSHINE

Montevideo, Feb. 3. The Ellsworth Antarctic Expedition arrived here yesterday in the Wyatt Earp. They intend to stay 10 days and will then go on to New York. Mr. Ellsworth stated that he was disappointed with the results of the expedition. The weather was the worst he had ever experienced in the Polar regions; there had been only 12 hours of consecutive sunshine. He spent 48 days looking for a suitable place for the aeroplane to take off, and managed only one flight, but was able to map some new country.

Mr. Ellsworth had hoped to fly across Antarctica from Deception Island to the Bay of Whales in the Ross Sea, a distance of 2,700 miles. This is his second disappointment. In the winter of 1933-34 he sailed to the Bay of Whales with the intention of flying from the Ross Sea to the Weddell Sea, but his aeroplane was badly damaged during preparations and the flight could not be attempted.

is appealed to, there will be no real remedy. Japan is a country of benevolence, not of violence, but each country has its own history and career and it is not reasonable for Japan to try to force her moral principles on other nations. If other nations commit acts of injustice, Japan should study the situation and endeavour to seek a way for conciliation and harmony. I cannot say anything regarding the bond policy on the supposition that war will occur.

COUNTER MEASURES

Q.—Is the Government prepared to take any counter-measures when the market prices of the bonds drop below the prices of issue?

A.—I cannot in advance mention counter-measures to be taken in such a case. In former times a radical rise or drop took place because the bonds were treated as objects of speculation. But to-day the Bank of Japan strictly examines the holdings of the prospective purchasers and sells bonds after making sure that the prospective purchasers really need them. Because the bank authorities maintain such an attitude, there will be little or no fear of speculation. If there be many bond-holders who sell because of the necessity to have capital, the Bank of Japan will either accommodate with capital, purchase bonds or otherwise cope with the situation.

Q.—The market does not yet believe the declaration of the Finance Minister that the Government will not resort to bond conversion into lower interest issues. The present price of the 5-per-cent bonds is being quoted in full consideration of the possibility of the bonds being converted into a lower interest issue. What is the policy of the Finance Minister?

A.—As I have repeatedly said, the question of loan conversion is still premature. The Government of course has the right to resort to conversion. However the Government must undertake it with a considerable amount of cash ready for redemption. Such a thing will not be easy of accomplishment at a time when the Government annually issues deficit-covering bonds in huge amounts. It will be considered only when deficit-covering bonds come to be unwanted and sinking fund is restored.

Q.—Conversion at one time would be difficult but how about doing it on a five or six-year plan?

A.—I have a different view but will give your suggestion consideration.—United Press.

Nerves were in a Terrible Way — 'ASPRO' a Surprise

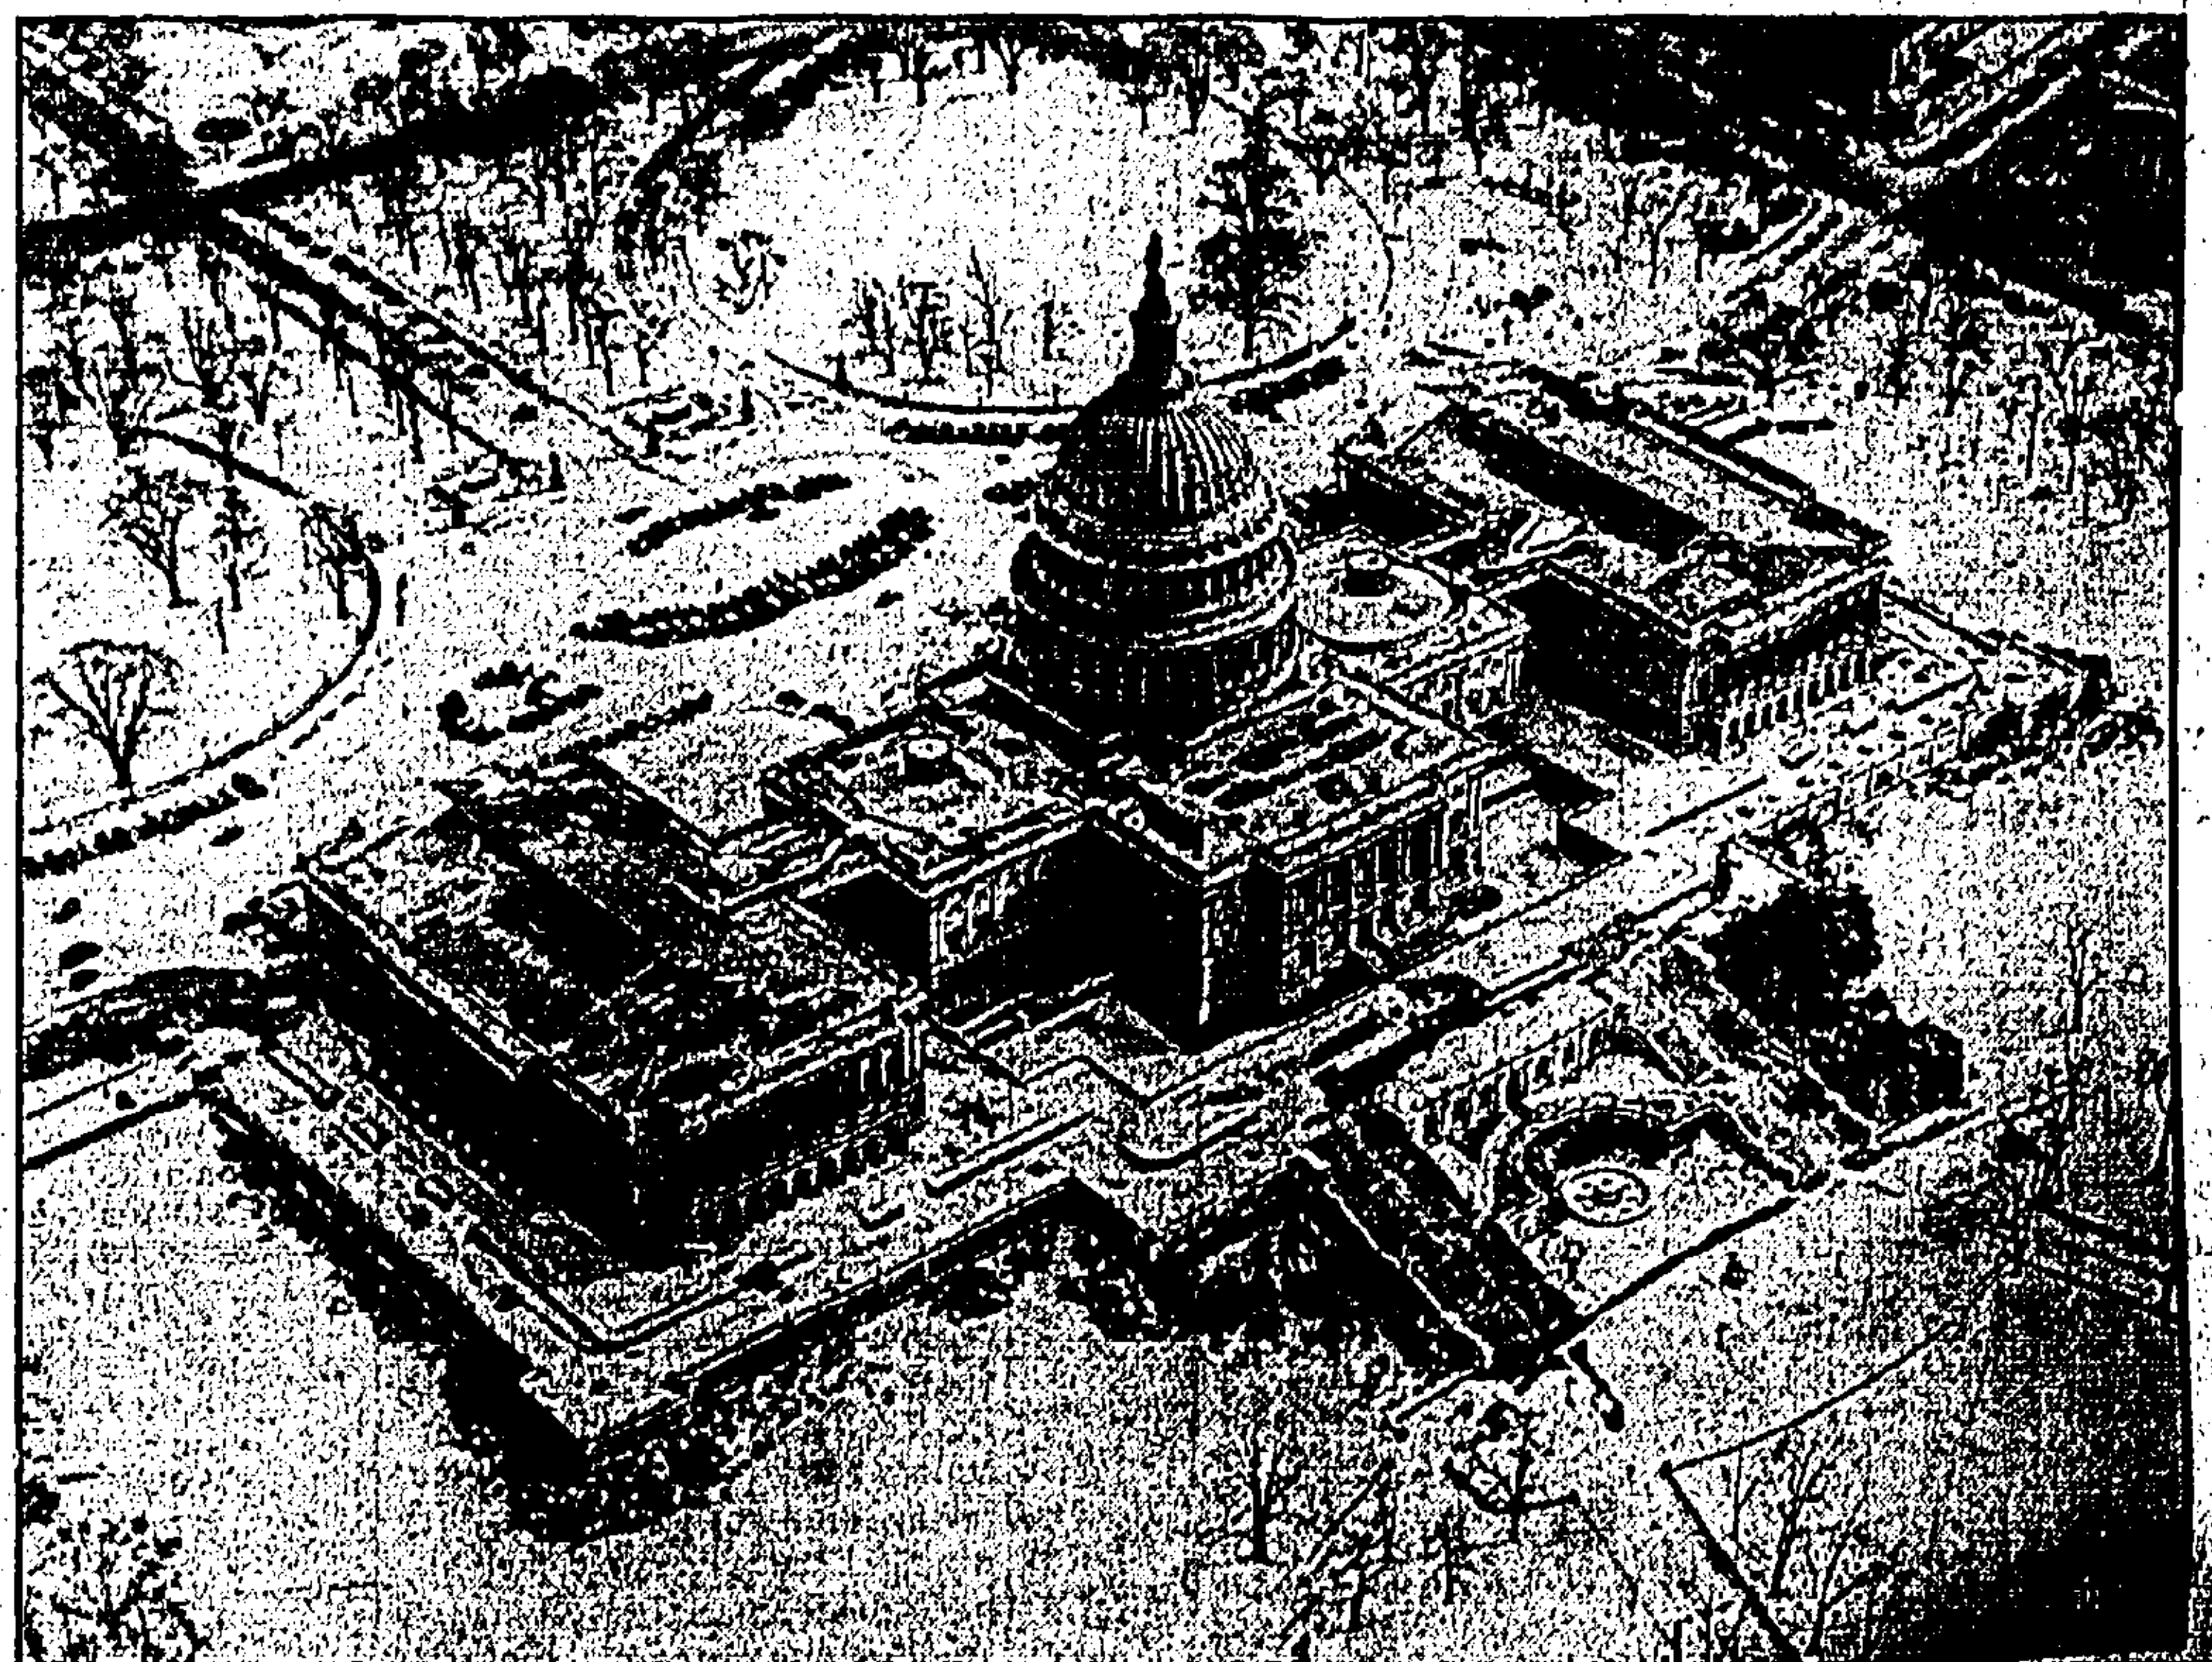

1 Garden Street,
Middle Brighton, S.S.

15/12/32.

Dear Sirs,
Last week I had 18 teeth out, and not being well my nerves were in a terrible way; in fact, I had to be taken home from the dentist. I went on for a couple of days in terrible pain with my head and eyes, due to my nerves, so I had to go to a doctor. On my way home I bought a packet of 'ASPRO'. I took three and laid down, and to my surprise I woke up feeling lovely. Now, if I feel a slight headache at all I fly to my 'ASPRO'. I think 'ASPRO' should be in every home. I could mention a few more facts where 'ASPRO' has done good in my home. Once tried, always used.

JAPAN, CHINA AND THE POWERS

There is a good deal of speculation in foreign chancelleries at the moment as to the exact position regarding the efforts being made to bring about a Sino-Japanese rapprochement. All the Powers with interests in China are closely watching the situation, fully alive to its potentialities. Generalisations
are now giving place to more specific rumours, in which connection it is suggested that Japan's terms include the replacement of China's German military advisers by Japanese officers, the engagement of Japanese experts by the Chinese National Economic Council in place of Westerners, the funding of unrecognized Japanese loans
of China, and the elimination of anti-Japanese textbooks from Chinese schools. In return, Japan is said to be willing to float a loan to tide China over
the present economic crisis.
These reports are denied by Japanese spokesmen, who, however, admit that a strong stand
is being taken with a view to ending anti-Japanese propaganda in China. What the precise truth is, it is difficult to hazard,
but that there has been and still
is a strong movement afoot in Nanking and Tokyo to evolve
new relationships between the two countries is scarcely open to doubt. If the Tokyo Government's terms for a rapprochement are anything like the rumours mentioned, they would appear to be designed rather in the interest of Japan than of China; indeed, they seem to fit
well with Japanese Far Eastern hegemony ambitions. Suggestions of a time-limit being imposed strengthen the feeling that there is nothing altruistic
about Japan's activities. Regarding the alternative to acceptance, there is a significant silence. So far as the Western Powers are concerned—particularly those who are signatories
to the Nine-Power Treaty—they would naturally welcome any movement sincerely designed to stabilise the peace of the Far East, but, as upholders of the Open Door principle and the system of collective assistance

to China, they could not look
with unconcern on any plan which might give Japan special interests and privileges—
political, economic or financial—in China. It is this aspect of the situation
which is at the moment receiving paramount consideration
in foreign Government quarters.
The issues involved are such that China would be wise to be on her guard. It is suggested, in this regard, that China is not really anxious for any re-orientation of her relations with Japan, but that exaggerated versions of Japan's proposals are being given currency in the hope that the Western Powers may come to China's aid. What foundation exists for such a view, it is not easy to say, but the complexities of Oriental politics
suggest the wisdom of overlooking no possibility. On the other hand, there are known influences
in Nanking working towards a Sino-Japanese understanding.
It remains to be seen what the reaction of South China will be.
And in this connection, the precise nature of Major General Doihara's mission to Canton, as well as all the circumstances
leading to his visit, are matters
of more than passing concern.

NOTES OF THE DAY

PLANNING AERODROMES

While there has been, and still
is, a persistently strong clamour
for the establishment of a civic aerodrome in Edinburgh, there is undoubtedly opposed to the proposal an informed body of opinion
which wishes the whole question intelligently dealt with before any definite movement is made. These latter, who deprecate a headstrong
and headlong embarking on the construction of an aerodrome, have some apparently reasonable arguments to advance in support of their point of view. One is that the talk of laying down, and the actual inauguration, of many aerodromes
is at the present time quite improbable. For instance, there were revealed only a day or two ago proposals for the establishment of three aerodromes in Fifeshire
within a comparatively short distance of each other. Aerodromes cannot be laid down like bus stations. To do so would be childish and lead to confusion. It may be that there will be some corrective to the haphazard planning of aerodromes very soon. An important conference is to be held in London in a few days, and it is possible that the Air Ministry will be approached to devise some scheme whereby the establishment of aerodromes will have some relation to the demands on them by air services. The position in most big cities is quite clear. At present the authorities are awaiting the report from experts on the question of a civic aerodrome.
But, since the distances for internal air services in Scotland are geographically confined to small bounds—compared, for instance,
with the expanses of America and Europe—more conducive to rail
than to air travel, and the weather conditions are so uncertain, some assurance will have to be given that Edinburgh will have a definite place in the Continental, and perhaps, Empire air services before an aerodrome is established. Only then would the capital's aerodrome
have a national importance and perform a national service.

FRUITS OF PERSECUTION

A member of an Independent Church in Scotland was discussing
with a friend the declining numbers and influence of that body. "I know what we need to revive and strengthen us," he said. "We need persecution," he said. "Very likely he was right. Time without number in religious history a dwindling
and apathetic body has been stung
to life by opposition, persecution.
That seems to have received
fresh proof in the Churches in Germany. Hitler could do almost anything after his revolution.
Everything went down before the blast of National Socialism—except the Churches. These also might have bent to his will if he, or his henchmen, had not tried to make the pastors, priests, and people
take nauseous doses of Nordic nonsense and to forswear the beliefs in which they had been reared.
The Churches, both Protestant and Catholic, defied Hitler and his men and have won. The struggle may be named as such a time as the levelers think propitious; but it is just possible that their own experience, and the experience of all the ages, will have taught them wisdom.
As for the efforts of the persecution, it is said that never in present
memory have the Churches in Germany been so well attended as now.
The Churches in Britain have a different story to tell, but it would be a strange irony if a revival
came, as some people think it will,
from a country which has for long been looked at askance as dangerously rationalistic.

FOSSILS AND ALL THAT

Edward Kelly Announces The Important Discovery That The Early Hongkong Man Threatened To Become A Human Being

By Edward Kelly, Ape Man.

Since last Saturday Edward Kelly, the Hongkong humorist, has been in hiding from Scot and Jewish readers of the "Telegraph," and has only come out from his lair to make some personal observations on the discoveries in Hongkong by Professor Shellshear and Father
Finn of fossilised remains of the Pleistocene Age.

In the following scientific treatise, from which you will derive no benefit whatever, Mr. Kelly traces the history of the Hongkong Man, from the time he first began signing chits, until his account was stopped at the Hotels.

Now read on.

HOT dinosaurs!

Professor Shellshear
and other Far Eastern anthropologists who attended
the Pre-history Congress in Manila have discovered that the Java and Peking Men
are only 400,000 years old.

Fossils discovered on the Peak and other hills of Hongkong proved this.

For reasons of delicacy, it was thought better not to mention
that the fossils may have been
those of Hongkong men.

It appears from the interview
a local contemporary obtained
with one of the learned anthropologists that the Peking Man was a simple fellow, having no more brain than a child of three or an average Government official.

Although this fossil was described as belonging to the Pleistocene Age, we lesser fry know that, in reality, he was a law-abiding citizen of the Stone Age.

This is so because in those days
a well-aimed rock or stone was
the usual way of putting baby to sleep, giving rise to that nursery
favourite "Rock-a-bye, Baby."

As a matter of fact we have been doing a bit of quiet investigating ourselves on the same lines
as our University colleagues, and were just about to announce our
"History of Hongkong in the Stony Age" when Professor Shell-
shear beat us to it.

After five years' study
among the ruins of Hongkong, including several women who
should have known better, we are now prepared to announce that the Hongkong Man is not a descendant of the Peking
Man.

Anthropologists, paleontologists
and other learned men with names
too long to mention have hesitated
for many years to classify the Hongkong Man, and it has remained for us to do so.

The real origin of mankind has,
until now, been lost in inquiry.

Most people are of the opinion that the original Hongkong Man was a slimy
creature resembling a louse
or the fellow your wife almost married.

But we, in collaboration with Professor Shellshear, are satisfied
now that he did not belong to the Early Pleistocene Age, which occurred 1,000,002½ years ago (we read that it was a million years old late in 1933), but to the Oysterolithic Age.

The Oysterolithic Age, as its name implies, was the age of the Early Oyster, or Oysterolithic
Man.

The Oyster, which came right
after the Pleistocene and right
before the soup, was not an attractive Age. Men were not at all fascinating as they are to-day,
and their only resemblance to their present descendants is that they didn't have a brass farthing.
In fact, they lacked even spines,
arms, legs, teeth and eyes. Their only sense of feeling—one that has also come down through the ages—was one of snobbery, and they seldom ventured outside their shells.

Salmon were hostile and very cunning with oysters. Salmon, as we know to-day, hid in tin cans,
and came out only on Friday
evenings, when it was the cook-
boy's day off.

In those days there was no such thing as a Hongkong Hotel, and it was not until nearly 400,000 years
later that it was discovered that oysters made excellent stews and cocktails.

By this time the Hongkong Man
had acquired arms, legs, spines
and eyes.

His chin had begun to recede
and he was now ready to apply for membership in the Hongkong Club.
In earlier days clubs had only been used to beat women with, but
a better use was found for them
when two brilliant Scotch scientists, Messrs. Haig and Haig, discovered whisky.

From then on, life for the Hongkong Man became much more complicated. He lived in caves on top of the mountain, travelling to and from the hunting grounds below
by the Peak tram car, which, in those days, was drawn by two underfed dinosaurs.

Sometimes the early inhabitants
in Hongkong ventured across to a place known as the Peninsula, but,
knowing the evil spirits (also bees, vines and stouts) that abounded there, their wives
objected, unless they were allowed to accompany their mates.

It was an ancestor of the writer
of this article who made the startling discovery that the Hongkong man was branching out into two separate tribes.

As he stood in front of his
cave one day, the explanation dawned on him. The tribe that wore skirts and played bridge
all afternoon were women; the ones who wore pants were men!

From then on life, was considerably simpler, although the early Hongkong Man still feared nature.

His greatest enemy was the wild and treacherous shroff, an animal which is uncivilised right up to the present day.

Even the primitive Clubs of the early Hongkong men were no protection against these terrifying
beasts, although the introduction
of protective barriers, or bars,
helped humanity to a considerable extent.

This brought us to the Glacial
Age, which has often been described as the age of frigidity.

Some of the less civilised Hongkong Men and Women of to-day
are noticeable descendants of the Glacial Man, the most frigid ones still residing in the mountain
caves of their ancestors.

The Glacial Man was surrounded with nothing but
ice, which was worthless
without whisky or ginger-ale.

Obviously there was nothing for the Glacial Man to do but mate (naturally, his Club was always handy), the mating season
opening (then, as now) on January 1 and ending on December 31.

The introduction of writing
gave a marvellous impetus to civilisation in Hongkong, and we understand that among the several neolithic implements discovered by Professor Shellshear
and Father Finn around the mountains were many small stone
tablets bearing mystic characters
strangely resembling the modern
letters "I," "O" and "U."

For a time civilisation was retarded when it was discovered that the two branches of Hongkong
humanity were reverting to type,
the important discovery, that women also wore pants creating something akin to the sensation
that would occur to-day if it was discovered that they didn't.

But nothing could stay the general onward march for long.
For the next fifty years Hongkong
made enormous strides, due, no
doubt, to the fact that both sexes
were inclined to fatness.

As Hongkong became more and more civilised such amenities as rabies, cholera, magistrates,
malaria, rising dollars, government departments, chicken pox and ZBW were introduced, making life
much easier for the Hongkong Man after he had retired from the Colony.

Hongkong may be said to have reached its highest pinnacle of civilisation when the Fan Dance
was introduced for the first time
this week, although, with our usual optimism, we have hopes for the future.

HEADACHE AFTER HEADACHE

Now She's Free from Them

A woman writes:—"I would like everyone who suffers from headaches to try Kruschen Salts. Before taking Kruschen I was hardly ever free from a headache. But since I have been taking it regularly I have hardly had a headache, for which I am very thankful, for headaches can make one feel quite ill. I have been taking that small dose of Kruschen every morning in a glass of warm water before my breakfast, and I feel so well."—(Mrs. A. R. D.)

Headaches can generally be traced to a disordered stomach and to the unsuspended retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. Remove these poisons—prevent them forming again—and you'll never have to worry any more. And that is just how Kruschen Salts bring swift and lasting relief from headaches. Kruschen Salts aid Nature to cleanse your body completely of all clogging waste matter. Start on "the little daily dose" of Kruschen to-morrow. Then you will very soon have done with headaches.

Bronze Age Surgery

"TREPHINED" SKULL DISCOVERED

TAKEN FROM THE SEA

A skull which was trawled from the sea on January 12 three-quarters of a mile off Ovingdean, Sussex, by Mr. J. Gillan, is considered by Dr. John Beattie, conservator of the museum of the Royal College of Surgeons, to belong to a man over 60 years of age, all the sutures being entirely obliterated. It is of the polygonal type which to-day is represented by the skull of the Australian aborigine, and was not uncommon in England during our own Bronze Age. The surface and texture of the skull denote that it had been interred.

As it was taken from the sea, it may have been a cliff-burial, the fall of the cliff precipitating it on to the beach or into the sea direct—and this is perhaps emphasized by the fact that there was a large fall of the cliff during the first week in January—or it may have come from the submerged forest-beds, parts of which are often seen at low tides. It shows no signs of prolonged rolling. This skull-piece is composed of both parietals the upper part of the occipital and the upper parts of both temporals. The frontal bone is entirely missing, together with the lower portions of both temporals and occipital.

PRIMITIVE SURGERY

Situated at the fore part of both parietals, an inch from the middle line on either side, are two well-defined perforations. That on the right side is almost circular in shape and measures 1 5/16 in. in antero-posterior diameter and 1 1/2 in. in the lateral diameter. That on the left parietal is, roughly, rhomboidal in shape, the long diameter (lateral) measuring 1 3/4 in. and the antero-posterior diameter being 1 5/16 in. Both operations were most probably performed at the same time. The method employed by the primitive surgeon was that used by men of the Third or Carnac epoch of the Neolithic Period. This was done by scraping the bone with a flint-flake in such a way as to produce a funnel-shaped hole whose sides slope downwards and inwards towards the lumen. Both the holes show this scraping method in a characteristic manner. These operations were performed during life, as a lens reveals the fact that, while some of the little pores of the bone are filled up with new bone, showing slight repairation, there has also been a great destruction of bone around the orifices, consequent upon a severe septic periorbitis. This latter would cover a length of time, which Dr. Beattie estimates at about six weeks, which means that the individual survived the double operation for six weeks.

Baroness Eloise de Wagner Wehrborn, self-styled "empress" of Calapagos, who ruled a group of men on Floreana Island, where bodies of two men were found under dramatic circumstances, was later reported bound for Australia with Robert Phillipson, with whom she is shown above. She had been believed dead. She also is pictured before she exiled herself to the lonely Pacific Island.

Great Britain is singularly deficient in prehistoric "trephined" skulls. Till now only two existed. First and foremost, the "Thames" skull, which exhibits on its vertex a completed operation, the individual having made an excellent recovery. This specimen was dredged from the Thames just above the place where Hammer-smith Bridge now stands. It is in the London Museum. The second specimen was taken from a Long Barrow (Neolithic) at Blisley in Gloucestershire. This shows an incomplete operation with no signs of repair, which probably means that the patient died before the primitive surgeon was able to finish his operation. This specimen is in the British Museum. The first specimen has the characteristically scraped foramen of Neolithic type, while the origin of the second proves it to be of Neolithic workmanship. To my knowledge there has been, to the present time, no example of a surgically "holed" Bronze Age skull of British origin.

The Ovingdean skull is therefore one of only three specimens this country possesses. It is unique in two respects; first, in being the only specimen of a Bronze Age "trephined" skull; and, secondly, the only specimen in Great Britain with two surgically made "openings" of the skull during life. Mr. Henry D. Roberts, director of the Brighton Museum, is to be congratulated on becoming possessed of so rare and so valuable an exhibit.

IMPOSSIBLE WILL

ESTATE TO GO TO CROWN

The First Division of the Court of Session, Edinburgh, recently held that the testamentary directions of Miss Christina Mackintosh, who died at Inverness in March, 1934, aged 60, were incapable of legal fulfilment, and that her estate amounting to about £3,000, should pass to the Crown.

Miss Mackintosh, who left a holograph will, directed that all her means should go to the erection of a grey granite vault, to be built above ground; that the bones of Mr. Robert Macadam and Mrs. Macadam, whom she called uncle and aunt, should be exhumed from their grave in Tomnahurich Cemetery, Inverness, and reinterred in separate coffins beside her own remains in the vault.

The Lord Advocate claimed the estate, on behalf of the Crown, stating that the project was of such an extravagant nature as to be contrary to public policy.

Lord Clyde, Lord President, said that there was no doubt that in the law of Scotland testamentary provision for the erection of a memorial or monument to the deceased was perfectly valid. It did not appear to him to be unnatural or extravagant that Miss Mackintosh, who had been all alone in the world, should wish her remains to rest alongside those of the only two people with whom she had any kind of affinity or connexion, but there was a point which presented formidable difficulty. He knew of no authority in the law of Scotland that a stranger had any right whatever to dispose by testament, of the mortal remains of other people; and it followed if one indispensable part of the project could not be legally accomplished, then the whole project must go.

The other three Judges concurred. Lord Blackburn observed that to exhumate the bodies of Mr. Macadam, who had been dead for 40 years, and of Mrs. Macadam, who was buried beside him 20 years later, would be something approaching sacrilege.

Britain's Air Minister is nothing if not air-minded, and here we see Lord Londonderry at Hatfield aerodrome ready to take off in a dual control machine which he was piloting himself.

SAFETY SIGNALS FOR WALKERS

CHISWICK HIGH ROAD SCHEME

PUSH-BUTTON CONTROL

The Minister of Transport has issued details of a scheme which has been evolved as a matter of urgency to deal with the exceptional dangers to pedestrians in Chiswick High Road.

The announcement stated that the Minister, impressed by the necessity of taking special steps to mitigate the danger of accidents in the road, had approved an experimental scheme for the erection of pedestrian-operated traffic signals in the thoroughfare. Accordingly he had decided to make a grant from the Road Fund towards the cost of the signals, and the work would be put in hand at once as a matter of urgency.

The use of the pedestrian-operated signal has been approved by the Minister because of the large proportion of pedestrians killed or injured on this road, which is one of four London roads selected by him for special attention. Five of the six persons killed on the road during the six months ended September 30 last were on foot.

Safety periods for pedestrians, during which all traffic signals show a red light simultaneously, are already provided at a number of busy junctions in London, notably Trafalgar Square and Hyde Park Corner, but they are regulated by pedestrians only in a few exceptional cases. The selected positions in Chiswick High Road are the junctions with Action Lane and Goldhawk Road. Traffic signals were installed at the first of these junctions just before Christmas. They were of the vehicle-actuated type, which means that they are operated by the pressure of vehicles on detector pads set in the carriageway.

"CROSS NOW"

The signals will now be altered to allow a safety period for walkers. On the London side of the junction special signal lights will face pedestrians, and push-buttons will be fitted to the posts. The signals will work in the normal way until a pedestrian presses the button, when the traffic in the main will be stopped. Traffic on the side road will not be released until a pedestrian has had time to cross. During this safety period the pedestrian signals will show the words "Cross Now" in white letters on a black ground, and at all other times they will show the words "Don't Cross" in red letters. The Ministry urges that pedestrians should make use of this push-button and obey the special signals.

HOW WORK CAN BE TURNED TO BENEFIT LOCAL FOOTBALL

NEED FOR MORE COMMONSENSE INTERPRETATION OF RULES

ONE of the least ostensible organisations in the Colony is the Referees' Association, and because of this there is probably a good percentage of footballers who know nothing of its existence, while others, who at least have the advantage of this knowledge, are by no means aware of its chief functions, even if they may hazard a rough guess as to its pretensions. And truth to tell the Referees' Association of Hongkong is not the live and forceful body which may be found in other places. This is almost principally because it died an unhappy death some years ago as a result of that fatal disease, Apathy. Nevertheless to-day the Association is beginning to lift its head, thanks largely to the initiative

all of the lectures given at these meetings are based on articles appearing in the official organ of the English Referees' Association, which, I believe, is known as "The Referee." By such means our local referees are being kept abreast of the times; they learn from an authoritative source of the latest changes in football law; knotty and fantastic points which occasionally occur during games are dealt with, and they are encouraged to learn from the experience of others. At the first meeting held during the present season Captain Hague, a referee of many years experience, gave chapters on various from his own knowledge of many interesting points which often arise at unexpected moments possibly to be wilder, and certainly to tax the ingenuity and knowledge of the referee.

MORE COMMONSENSE NEEDED

PERSONALLY I think that on technical branches of football law local referees as a whole are fairly sound. I am now referring to branches such as offside, handball and foul throws. On the other hand there is a definite weakness in their decisions regarding other laws which allow for a certain amount of imagination and admit a human factor. Jumping is an act which is only covered by rules in a very generalised manner, and because of this and the referees' inability to discover a stringent rule concerning it, jumping has been allowed to become one of the most distasteful features of football in Hongkong. It has been permitted to slide until at the present time, especially among the Chinese, every nine jumps out of ten is a foul, and every one out of ten comes under the heading of dangerous play. It is dangerous to leap two or three yards along the ground. In the hope the ball may be at your opponent's feet when you land. It is very dangerous to jump and kick so high that you take the ball off a man's head. Yet these things are occurring in matches here every week and will continue until either a serious accident happens, or referees are taught not to be entirely slavish to a rule in black and white, but to use their imagination, discretion and the plenary powers invested in their office.

STOPPING DANGEROUS TACTICS

IT is here I certainly think the Referees' Association and its meetings can be of real help to local officials and of lasting value to football generally in the Colony. I should like to see referees encouraged to adopt the Advantage Rule more frequently and to use their own commonsense in the matter of tactics, which may not actually violate a hide-bound law, but may easily come under the heading of dangerous play. I am not advocating that our local footballers should be coddled, but I have seen hair-raising tactics used in Hongkong which would be stopped immediately in England and elsewhere, no matter whether the act constituted a technical foul or not. HAYASHI, JAPAN'S TENNIS PLAYER OF THE FUTURE

MODEL SHOTS OF LATE JIRO SATOH

ENTERTAINING EXHIBITION AT
H.K.C.C. YESTERDAY

(By "Veritas")

In between showers of rain and on a court rendered difficult by the conditions, Hayashi, Japan's third best singles player yesterday gave some idea of the difference between first class tennis and that practised in Hongkong, when he appeared in exhibitions at the H.K.C.C. The event was organised by The Hongkong Lawn Tennis Association.

It was Hayashi's first venture on a grass court, and I do not think that even the late Jiro Satoh made a better debut on turf.

Hayashi, in fact, is a prototype of the former Davis Cup player, and he has clearly modelled his game on that of Japan's greatest player. Hayashi gave a classical exposition of volleying during his game with Tsui Wai-pul. The Japanese has no time for the pseudo stop volley which is the popular stroke in local tennis. Like Satoh did, and Yamagishi does, Hayashi hit the ball in a very sharp manner which had the double effect of giving the ball pace and keeping it very low. His cross-court volleying both in the singles and doubles was as good as anything seen in Hongkong. Hayashi's running forehand drive was another feature shot yesterday, while his backhand ground strokes are as stylish as those of Nishimura, and just as powerful.

Despite every disadvantage Hayashi revealed that he has all the strokes and sufficient knowledge of how to use them to put him in the forefront of just class players in the next two years. He is clearly a potential Davis Cup player, and will, I think become as great as Jiro Satoh if his career can proceed on normal lines.

YOSHIOKA'S PLACEMENTS

Yoshioka, his compatriot, has not the same mastery of strokes—that is in singles. True he played S. A. Rumjahn under most wretched conditions, rain falling throughout the thirteen games played. Yoshioka has studied the art of placing, but yesterday was unable to follow up to take advantage of the openings created by these shots.

In the doubles encounter he became much more prominent, smashing and volleying in fine style. He and Hayashi proved much too fast for the Rumjahns, while the variety of strokes they pulled out often left the cousins floundering.

The chief memory left by this exhibition, however, was Hayashi's volleying; truly a lesson to local players.

Ng Sze-Kwong And The Davis Cup

NOT GOING TO AMERICA

(By "Veritas")

Mr. Ng Sze-kwong, former Hongkong tennis champion and Chinese representative in the Far Eastern Games, will not be taking the Chinese Davis Cup team to America as non-playing captain.

Ng Sze-kwong was invited by the C.N.A.A.F. to assume these responsible duties, but he has found it impossible to accept.

He informs me, however, that he will probably attend the 1936 World Olympics in Berlin as manager of the Chinese players.

COLOURFUL CAREER

Ng Sze-kwong was one of the most colourful personalities produced on local tennis courts. He first won the singles title in 1917, after being runner-up to S. E. Green in 1915 and 1916. He still holds the record of having won the title six years in succession.

He was the first winner of the doubles championship in 1917 when he teamed with Wong Po-keung, and these two held the title for three years. Ng staged a "come-back" in 1922 when he recaptured the championship with Wei Wing-lok and retained it for two years.

His profound knowledge of the game makes him an ideal manager and it is a pity that he is unable to give China the benefit of his experience this year.

SNOOKER LEAGUE

Cup Presented For Competition

With the conclusion of the Steel Coulson Billiards League, Mr. J. H. Rutledge has caused interest in the green table art to be maintained by the promotion of a snooker league which is to commence next Tuesday evening.

A meeting of enthusiasts was recently held and it was decided to accept an offer made by Messrs. H. Rutledge and Son, agents for Messrs. Steel, Coulson & India Pale Ale, to provide a silver cup to be competed for annually, and miniature cups for the winning team with medals for the runners-up.

The following teams signified their intention of joining the newly formed league: Chief and Petty Officers' Recreation Rooms; Royal Engineers' Warrant Officers and Sergeants' Mess; Garrison Sergeants' Mess; Hongkong Police (Central); Water Police (Kowloon); Prison Wardens Officers' Mess; Royal Navy Dockyard Police and St. Patrick's Club.

Mr. J. H. Rutledge was elected President of the league and Mr. W. E. Funnell, Hon. Secretary, with the following forming the committee:—Sgt. Hodges, Royal Engineers, P. O. Hongkong Police and Mr. Willerton, Garrison Police.

Each team will be composed of five men and each will play one frame against his opponent, one point being scored for each frame won.

The following are the fixtures for the first three weeks:

LAWN BOWLS MATTERSASSOCIATION TO HOLD MEETING*THE AFFILIATION QUESTION

A meeting of the Council of the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association was held in the board room of the South China Morning Post, Ltd. last evening, with Mr. B. E. Maughan, President, in the chair.

The chairman mentioned the receipt of a letter from Mr. W. Askew, Secretary of the St. Dunstan's Home, which was in the following terms:

In the absence of Capt. Sir Ian Fraser, who is visiting St. Dunstan's in the Dominions, I write to thank you for your generous gift of £13-13d, this being the amount collected by Messdames Wilcox and Waterson on the occasion of the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association's Closing Day.

"To have been able to make such an increase on last year's effort is really splendid."

"On behalf of the Executive Council of St. Dunstan's I would like to say how greatly all here appreciate your continued kind thought for war-blinded men. There are 2,000 night-less men, all of whom are leading happy and fully occupied lives."

"A pledge of life long care has been given to them, but it is only possible to carry this out with the aid of sympathisers like the members of the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association."

The chairman said that it was good to know that their efforts were being appreciated.

ANNUAL MEETING

The meeting decided to call the annual general meeting of members of the association for Thursday, March 21.

Special expenditure incurred by Hongkong's representatives at Wimbledon during last year's Empire Games was discussed, and it was decided that the Association should meet these expenses, they being cost of badges which were presented to members of opposing teams and other incidental expenses.

On the suggestion of the chairman it was decided that more suitable Association badges be acquired from Home.

The question of affiliation to the International Bowling Board was the supreme controlling power in bowls and although in the past they were affiliated through being members of the English Bowling Association it was felt that it would be better if Hongkong became affiliated with the International Bowling Board as a separate unit.

Representatives of Clubs all agreed with the suggestion, and it was decided that a recommendation to this effect be put before the annual meeting for consideration.

Mr. F. L. Rapley was elected auditor of the Association.

WANSTEAD MATCHES

In mentioning the forthcoming matches at Wanstead this year the chairman asked the co-operation of Clubs who will have members on Home leave at the time when the matches are to take place. It was mentioned that it was hoped to arrange matches with the South African touring team, while it was hoped that Shanghai would combine with the Hongkong players and thus strengthen the opposition for the English clubs.

Mention was made during the meeting that Mr. H. Hampton would be leaving during the year and would not be available to take over the duties of Hon. Secretary.

The chairman proposed that the Association bear the cost of the badges which were presented to the Hongkong Interport players who went to Shanghai last year. He mentioned that as they had gone to the expense of paying the passages he felt the Association should not ask them to pay for their badges as well.

The suggestion was accepted, and on the motion of Mr. Russell the meeting decided to recommend to the annual general meeting that in future all Interport players be presented with badges gratis.

HAYASHI PLAYS FINE TENNIS

once he had his chop and spin strokes in working order he held his own with Hayashi.

Tau's best stroke remains his drop shot, and with this he scored several outright points. On a dry court Tau would have been out-driven, but the young Chinese player was clever enough to use the conditions to his own benefit, forcing Hayashi up to mid-court with heavily chopped strokes which made the ball stand up and nullified driving.

In an exchange of ground shots Tau was seldom uncomfortable, but whenever Hayashi essayed a net attack the local player was invariably left standing (and applauding) by a magnificent volley which put the ball yards away from him.

RUMJAHNS BELOW FORM

The Rumjahns were palpably below form. They were continually on the defensive and even in this phase were found wanting. Short lobbing was the worst feature of their work. They were suicidal strokes and neither of the cousins seemed able to improve their length.

When, in the second set, facing a 3-5 deficit, they took their courage in hand and went for some points, they began to find that form which has made them unbroken champions for a decade; even so H. D. Rumjahn did not find his real touch and made unexpected mistakes in volleying—usually his strongest weapon. Sirdar's overhead was distinctly variable and the volleying of both players lacked the same decisiveness of the Japanese, who rarely needed more than two strokes from the net to win a point.

The weather kept the attendance down to meagre proportions, but those who did risk the elements, and were brave enough to sit through the rain, were well rewarded. In Hayashi they certainly saw a player of the future, and 1936 will probably see him again in Hongkong; then as a member of the Davis Cup team.

There will be a soccer game between the Hongkong and Shanghai Hotels and a Jewish team to-morrow at the Club de Recreio grounds, kick off at 3 p.m. sharp. The Jewish eleven will be chosen from—D. Blumenthal, L. Blumenthal, C. Fuxman, H. C. Gubbay, A. Caplan, L. Jandau, M. Talan, B. Greenberg, L. Omenheim, B. Pasco, E. Joseph, B. Weiss.

whether a foul was merely suggested or made possible.

PROBLEM OF CONTROL

Like school teachers, one of the fundamental duties of referees is to control; because of this referees and school teachers are confronted with a similar problem. What are the best methods by which to control, and in the case of the referees, to assist the players, and at the same time to improve football as a spectacle of sporting and skillful play? From what I have seen there are numbers of local players who do not learn the lessons they should from being arbitrarily penalised by either free kicks or "Marching Orders." And this suggests another field which the Referees' Association might explore. If they could discover the most effective methods of inculcating into refractory players the principles of fair play and of making them understand which is the right and wrong thing to do, then I am sure our football would be made much cleaner, brighter and more entertaining.

BUDDING ORATORSINTERESTING CONTEST AT CHINESE Y.M.C.A.

BRIDGESolution to Previous Contract Problem.

By W. E. McKenney

There's a lot of good bridge
played in Pittsburgh, but oddly enough, it is a poor duplicate city.
That is, there is not as much tournament bridge played in Pittsburgh
as there is in other large centres.
Pittsburgh players, however,
when they have gone to tournaments, have always given a fine

account of themselves.

I dropped in at the Pittsburgh
Bridge Club, in the William Penn
Hotel, recently, and met several of Pittsburgh's fine players. Before leaving I obtained six very interesting hands. The first was played by Fred J. Rapp, formerly of Cleveland, a youngster who likes to add a thrill or two to the game with an unusual bid, now and then. He plays exceptionally well, too. Here
one that he had to show his stuff
on, to make his contract of six odd.

North's bid of two no trump was highly constructive, as was the three spade bid. When South went to three no trump and North bid
four hearts, this was not exactly a sign-off. Therefore, Mr. Rapp was justified in inviting a slam by bidding five hearts.

The Play

West opened a small diamond
which Mr. Rapp won in dummy with the king. He then led a small heart and made the natural play of finessing the jack. West's singleton king winning. West returned another diamond, which the declarer won with the ace. He then ruffed his losing diamond with
the seven of hearts and cashed the queen of hearts, only to find that West showed out, discarding a club.

Today's Contract Problem.

North has the contract for four spades. A diamond is opened and three straight dia-

HERRING INDUSTRY

NEW GOVERNMENT BILL TO AID SCOTTISH FISHERS

London, Mar. 1.
Much of the disparity that exists between the price of herrings as they are landed from trawlers in Scotland, and the price paid by the consumer in England, will be removed when the Herring Industry Bill, which had its second reading in the House of Lords yesterday, becomes law.

The Bill, which was sponsored in the House of Commons by Sir Godfrey Collins, Secretary for Scotland, and the price paid by the consumer in England, will be removed when the Herring Industry Bill, which had its second reading in the House of Lords yesterday, becomes law.

BALI

THE ISLAND OF 1,001 TEMPLES

In connection with the unique event in the theatrical history of the Colony of the arrival of the Royal Ballinere Dancers on March 4, it may be of interest to our readers to know something more about this wonderful land, which is called "The Land of 1,001 Temples," and which is considered as one of the most interesting spots in the world.

Just as it was in Europe in the Middle Ages, to-day in Bali the Church and Society form an inseparable whole; indeed life in Bali is carried on entirely along lines of its religion.

In the first place, it is necessary to notice the old aboriginal belief in mountain, wood and lake spirits. This gives rise to numerous temples in which the great mountains, such as the Gunung Agung, the Gunung Batur and others are worshipped.

Then there are also many temples for sacred springs, while various sacred virtues are attributed to the waters of such springs.

Also have to be mentioned the caves and bathing temples by the banks of the rivers. The caves are of Hinduistic origin and they are the bathing places of the Gods; they are just as sacred as the Pura's (Temples).

The chief of the Ballinere Pantheon is the Sun, who is identified with Siwa. This is the only Hindu God who is worshipped at the temples.

On a somewhat different plane is the worship of the "World Serpent," Antaboga, who is at the same time Lord or Guardian of the Nether-World.

It must be stated that of all the Hindu Gods it is only for the Sun God and occasionally for the Trinity that shrines have been built in Bali.

Jewellery and other property belonging to Squadron Leader Keary, valued at over $400, were stolen by a thief who broke into his residence at No. 55 Armend Buildings, Kowloon, the night before last. The matter is being investigated by the police.

HISTORIC SITES

PRINCE OF WALES SPEAKS AT BANQUET

London, Mar. 1.
Within forty-five minutes of his return to London last night, the Prince of Wales was attending the anniversary dinner of the National Trust for places of historic interest or natural beauty. He paid a warm tribute to the value of this organisation, which he pointed out was purely a private body, registered as charity, and without any Government grant, which, however, worked harmoniously with the Office of Works. He said the National Trust was everyone's concern, since it was doing so much to preserve those features of British life which were of such great value to those who lived in the great cities and indeed to all who loved the English countryside.

Although the Trust had acquired seventeen new properties in the last year, modern conditions made it essential that a great deal more open spaces should be protected and acquired for the nation.—British Wireless.

REGISTRY WEDDING

MR. R. V. PERRETT MARRIES MISS SOPHIE RINT

The wedding took place quietly at the Registrar's Office, Supreme Court, yesterday afternoon, of Miss Sophie Rint and Mr. Richard Victor Perrett, a radiographer in the R.A.M.C. The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Rosa Rint, and of the late Mr. Mars Rint of Tientsin, formerly resided at Elgin Avenue, Tientsin. Mr. Perrett trained as a radiographer at the Royal Army Medical College, University of London, at Westminster, London, and has been employed for the last three years at the British Military Hospital at Tientsin. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Perrett of Plymouth, Devon, England. Mr. W. H. Freeman, R.A.M.C., witnessed the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Perrett are leaving for their honeymoon, to be spent in Devonshire, on H.M.T. Somersetshire, which leaves the Colony on Sunday.

CHINA OPENED UP DIRECT NEGOTIATIONS LAST YEAR

Tokyo, Mar. 1.
